

...and the res...
...a cyclopedia constructed after ...the style of a thick-and-thin Re...publican newspaper editorial than ...an enunciation of the proposed po...licy of a Presidential aspirant.
The lateness of the hour at which the letter was received makes a detailed consideration at this time impossible. That it is a pleasure to promise, will follow hereafter.
The tariff, of course, is discussed at length by Mr. Harrison, who cleverly marshals the usual Republican arguments, dexterously distorts facts, boldly bases his structures upon such sands as Commissioner Peck's New York report, and after all is said, finds the chief virtues of the McKinley Act in its enlargement of the free list and in its "reciprocal" free trade on crutches, for which the President, at last, in the existing emergency, gives Mr.
Blaine credit.
Mr. Harrison touches the Force bill rather gingerly. He repeats his platitudes about a non-partisan commission to consider the subject, as if it were possible to administer such a law in a non-partisan manner, and as if the country had forgotten how he bent every effort to securing the passage of a most offensively and distinctively partisan Federal election law; while in the next breath he expresses a hope that the States may make a satisfactory regulation of this matter themselves.
All in all, the letter, as a campaign document, is artfully done.
It will make votes among the thoughtless and the ignorant. But in those features in which it is intended to be strongest it can not stand for an instant before the light of fact and knowledge.
Judge M. C. Lisle.
A special from Winchester, the home of the Democratic nominee for Congress in the Tenth district, says:
Judge M. C. Lisle, who was yesterday nominated for Congress by the Democrats on the Tenth district, is one of the most popular men in this section of the State.
He is about thirty years of age, and is a native of this (Clark) county, where he has resided all his life.
He was born on a farm in the river hills, and is in thorough sympathy with the yeomanry of the land. He was educated in the common schools, and finished his course at the Kentucky University. He studied law and graduated in that profession from the Columbia Law School, New York. He is now County Judge, having been elected by a large majority over a very popular competitor. A few years ago he married Miss Lizzie Bean, a lovely lady, belonging to one of our best families and related to Gov.
Buckner, of this State, and Gov.
Crittenden, of Missouri. The people of this city, irrespective of party, are proud of their next Congressman.
Cleveland's Popularity.
An advertising agent who was in Syracuse last week, himself a Republican, but going to vote for Cleveland, mentioned a little straw showing the direction of the wind.
"I was on the boat going to Sea-bright the other day," said he, "and chanced to sit on deck near a group of seven prominent business men of New York, all Republicans.
They got to talking politics, when it was discovered that every one of the seven was going to vote for Cleveland." One of the group, he added, is an employer of 2,800 persons, 1,500 of whom are men. Like "straws" can be picked up almost any day.—Syracuse Courier.
Paynter For Congress.
Hon. T. H. Paynter was on last Tuesday nominated for re-election for Congress from this district.
The convention met at Carlisle at one o'clock on that day and nominated Con. L. T. Moore chairman and Editor Green Kellar secretary.
No opposition was offered to Mr.
Paynter, and he was nominated by acclamation.
Such a nomination in a district with a safe Democratic majority is a great compliment, and coming to Mr. Paynter as it does for the third successive time is a greater one. It is the most flattering testimony of the high estimation in which he is held in the district.
One Million Votes Stronger.
Mr. Cleveland received 627,216 more votes in 1888, when he was defeated, than he did in 1884, when he was elected. But this, although flattering, is not a sure indication of the rate at which his popular strength increases. The events of the past few years, and the ...much more

...the want of rain than has the
...the north and western portion. Of ...course there are exceptions to this ...statement, for the rains have been ...very spotted.
A large part of the wheat crop is threshed and marketed. Although the price is very low, it has put a large amount of money in circulation, as the yield was a very large one. In many localities fall plowing is progressing finely. The large yield of last harvest will cause a large acreage to be sown. The average yield per acre, fourteen bushels.
The following is a recipe for smut which is guaranteed to prevent: Bluestone, one and one-half pounds, dissolved in two gallons of hot water, sprinkled on eight bushels of wheat; shovel up thoroughly until every grain is wet. By keeping this proportion, any amount needed may be prepared. After using just two gallons of the water on each eight bushels, go over the whole again with shovel until thoroughly mixed. Spread out a little and it be ready to sow the next day. The bluestone carefully applied to wheat in this way is just as certain to prevent smut as water properly applied is to put out fire. Twenty years experience has demonstrated this beyond a doubt.
CORN.—Reports as to corn vary all the way from a number one crop, and as low down as to one-fourth. In the last few weeks rains have been reported pretty generally over the State. While not sufficient to wet the ground and start the fall grasses, have been of incalculable advantage to both tobacco and corn. I think I am justified in saying that the crop will be fully two-thirds of a crop.
The per cent. is 84.
CLOVER.—Some complaint of the young clover dying—effects of the drouth. There will be a fair average of clover seed saved.
SORGHUM.—This crop promises a fair percentage in yield and acreage. Per cent. compared with last year is 77 per cent.
OATS.—The yield per acre is far better than for several years. It is placed at 22 bushels.
POTATOES.—Condition compared with last year—91 per cent.
Stock of all kinds reported in good condition.

Show that Sullivan was not the Best Man in the World.
James J. Corbett, of California, won $15,000 and the heavy-weight belt of the world by knocking out John L. Sullivan at New Orleans Wednesday night. The fight lasted for 21 rounds. Corbett had the best of it clear through and actually came out without a scratch, while Sullivan was badly bruised.
In the first two rounds Corbett allowed Sullivan to do most all the fighting and simply avoided the big fellow's blows. After this he did a full share of the leading, and after the seventh round he was the aggressive party. He fought cautiously, however, and stopped Sullivan's rushes by punching him on the nose and in the stomach. He showed marvelous science and hit Sullivan when and where he pleased, and succeeded in avoiding all the champion's dangerous blows. Corbett was smiling and twitting Sullivan during the whole fight, but Sullivan was wild with rage. In the last round Corbett rushed Sullivan to the ropes and knocked him all around the ring. A terrible blow on the ear sent him down full on his face. After a few seconds he rose to his hands and knees but was too weak to get up, and in attempting to do so he pitched forward and lay there until the referee declared Corbett winner. Sullivan was besmeared with blood, his nose was broken, his lips were swollen, and he was severely bruised about the face and ribs.
Corbett was fresh and without a scratch.
A telegram received yesterday evening contained the startling information that Sullivan committed suicide about four o'clock yesterday afternoon. No particulars could be obtained.
CLEVELAND'S WORDS TO FARMERS.
What He Said in His Messages About the Tariff and the Farmer.
Our farmers and agriculturists—those who from the soil produce the things consumed by all—are perhaps the more directly and plainly concerned than any other of our citizens in a just and careful system of federal taxation. Those actually engaged in and more remotely connected with this kind of work number nearly one half of our population.
None labors harder or more continuously than they. No enactments limit their hours of toil, and no interposition of the government enables to any extent the value of their products.
And yet for many of the necessaries and comforts of life which the most scrupulous economy enables them to bring into their homes, and for their implements of husbandry, they are obliged to pay a price largely increased by an unnatural profit which, by the action of the government, is given to the more favored manufacturer.—Message to Congress, 1886.
Our farmers, long suffering and patient, struggling in the race of life with the hardest and most unremitting toil, will not fail to see, in spite of misrepresentations and misleading fallacies, that they are obliged to accept such prices for their products as are fixed in foreign markets, where they compete with the farmers of the world; that while their debts increase, and that without compensating forced by the action of the government to pay, for the benefit of others, such enhanced prices for the things they need that the scanty returns of their labor fail to furnish their support or leave no margin for accumulation.—Tariff Message, 1887.

Extraordinary circumstances justify extraordinary measures. If we demanded high prices you would probably ask the reason why, but you don't want any explanation of low prices. We are quoting some figures. It hasn't been a case of gradual reduction; it's a fascinating figure. If you have a brilliant imagination, just swift decent to rock bottom. If you have a brilliant imagination, just exercise it a little trying to explain for instance, how it is possible to

A colored school, taught by a competent man, is in session in Louisa, and we are glad to know that it is well attended. It is too late for the adult colored people to do much for themselves in the matter of education, but they can and should do much for their children.

The stillness of the early autumn air was broken last Friday night by some very sweet strains evoked from violin, cello, cornet and organ. North, south, east and west the players went, and by numerous windows the musicians made the midnight tune with their harmony.

J. C. L. Moore writes us from Fallsburg that he can not get his News because, notwithstanding his orders to the contrary, the postmaster "lets it out" to some one else. Mr. Moore has just cause for complaint, but we can not help him. His remedy is elsewhere. After we mail our paper our responsibility ceases.

One of the pressing necessities of Louisa is a good sidewalk in front of the school building. The present aggregation of loose boards and misplaced scantling is but a delusion and a snare, a trap and general nuisance. There should be a good crossing from Evans' corner to the school house lot, and a solid, well built walk along the entire front.

The attention of the proper official is respectfully called to the condition of the lane in the rear of the mill. There are two large holes, now filled with dirty water, which should be filled with stone or cinder. It is these foul puddles which contribute largely to the propagation and spread of disease. They constitute nuisances of the most pronounced type, and should be abated.

J. F. Endicott had Eli Smith under arrest here last Sunday, and while he was not watching Smith, the latter drew a revolver and pointed it at Theron Wilson, who was helping to guard him. Endicott drew a pistol and ordered Smith to lower his. Smith started on a run for the river and was pursued by the guards, who shot at him several times without effect. Smith escaped into West Virginia.

Base Ball.

The Ceredo base ball club will be here to-morrow, Saturday, to play the Louisa club a match game. Playing will begin between twelve and one o'clock. A good game is expected.

About The Size of It.

The most revolting feature in mountain crime is the cowardice of it. Men are continually shot from ambush. The mountain terror is usually as ardent a coward when brought face to face with death as murderer Taft. Hall showed himself on the scaffold. The favorite methods of "removing" an obnoxious enemy is to hide in the brush or behind a rock as he rides along the road and shoot him from cover, or to call him to the door of his house and shoot him while he is unarmed and unable to see an enemy in the dark, even if he had looked for one. The mountain desperadoes are generally hulking, loading cowards, and mountain murders are usually characterized by treachery.--C. J.

The Prosecutors.

The late hour at which we received the news of the resignation of S. G. Kinner and the appointment of G. W. Castle preceded more than a mere announcement of the fact in our last issue. And we take this occasion to pay a brief tribute to the worth of the late and the present prosecuting attorney for this district. Mr. Kinner was, in our judgment, an ideal prosecutor. He was prompt, intelligent and firm in the discharge of his onerous duties, and never, so far as we ever knew or heard, forgot himself as an officer and became a persecutor. Vindictiveness is entirely foreign to his nature, and when he had presented his case for the state as he understood it he was content. Furthermore, he leaves an office which offers to the incumbent many opportunities for unlawful gain with no taint upon his garments--his name was almost a synonym for integrity.

Mr. Kinner will be the next judge of this district, and we predict for him a judicial career as honorable and as distinguished as that which attended him as public prosecutor. Mr. Castle has not been called to his office by the people, but when Governor Brown appointed him the successor of Mr. Kinner he voiced the sentiment of the people of this district. He is a young, thoroughly criminal practitioner, and we predict for him a successful career.

Infanticide.

Last Saturday some women at the poor farm, while grappling for a lost bucket, in a well used on wash days fished up the body of an infant. A jury of inquest was impaneled to investigate the matter. The people at the poor house were examined but nothing tending to throw any light on the subject was discovered. The body had evidently been in the water for some time and fastened down. The flesh on the limbs was decomposing but the body was in a fair state of preservation. When thrown in the well it was to all appearances a newborn child and would have weighed about ten pounds.--Wayne News.

MURDERER AND SEDUCER.

A Wronged Father gets Death Instead of Revenge.

On Twelve Pole in Wayne county, W. Va., last Monday Chas. Maynard met instant death from a pistol ball which entered his mouth and crushed through his brain. The shot was fired by Ep Queen.

A year or two ago Queen married Maynard's niece and lived with her until recently, when he deserted her. Some time previous to the killing he lured Maynard's daughter from home and ran away with the girl. Her father at once swore to kill him at first sight. Last Monday they met and Maynard drew a revolver and told Queen he had to die and that he would grant him five minutes in which to pray. Queen at once availed himself of the offer and just before the time expired he jumped up and rushed at Maynard, who fired a ball which cut the skin on his head. Maynard then drew a short, loaded club and struck Queen a blow which stunned him. They clinched and in the tussle Queen got the pistol and shot Maynard, as stated above. Queen at once left and has not been captured.

A Palace of Coal.

A proposition has been made to the Kentucky World's Fair Board of Managers by the Cannel-Coal Company, of Myrtle, Ky., that the State building at Chicago be made of canal coal, and they desire to furnish the material from the mines at Myrtle. This coal is said to be a beautiful black and susceptible of the highest polish. The company offers to deliver the coal on board the cars at Myrtle and ship it to Chicago for $2.50 a ton. After the fair is over, the coal forming the building can be sold in Chicago for $5.00 a ton, a gain of $2.50 over the cost price.

The exterior and the arches of the edifice will be made of coal, and it has been suggested that the woman's building be adorned with several columns of canal coal, polished to resemble jet, and ornamented with electric lights. Mr. Dulaney will submit the proposition to the Board of Managers.

He thoroughly impressed by the vastness and importance of the coal industry of our State, and thinks that some discussion of this proposition will attract the attention and arouse the interest of the proprietors of other mines and also the general public.

This coal is taken from the mines in solid blocks two feet eight inches thick and of any desired length. When dressed and polished it can be built into walls with the exactness of marble.--Lexington Observer.

Don't Be Scared, But Do Be Cautious.

The New York Medical Journal, in a very timely and judicious article on cholera, places the above words very prominently among quite an array of "don'ts." The dreaded scourge is not exactly in the city of New York, but it is on more than one ship in the harbor, and deaths from it occur every day. Unlike the custom of former days the bodies of the dead are not buried, but are cremated, thus utterly destroying any possibility of further contagion, or rather infection, from that source. I say infection, because cholera is not contagious in the sense that small pox and scarlet fever are. It is a germ or bacillus, and it is doubted if this mysterious article can be carried from the diseased to the healthy by mere contact or touch.

But whatever may be the origin of the pestilence, or however its seeds are propagated, the fact remains and stares us in the face that it is in the United States. The sense of many of our people is that it is now in our midst. It is a fact that it is now in our midst. It is a fact that it is now in our midst.

We knew a quarter of a century ago. We know infinitely more of sewerage and sanitation and prevention, but in reading the journals of the present I discover that pretty much the same remedies are used now as were used by physicians during the awful days of '32, '47, '56 and '73. But in the matter of hygiene, of disinfectants and the proper nursing of the sick we are very much better prepared to fight the enemy now than then.

And it is to these very important points that I desire to call the attention of our people. You can do much to keep the cholera away, and you can do much toward successfully fighting him if he should come. First of all, Clean up! Every foul privy, every bit of garbage, every pool of stagnant water is a loud note of invitation to the gaunt specter now reaching out its bony fingers to clutch us in a fight which is, in about two-fifths of the cases, a fight to a finish and you are a victim. Fortunately there is little or no green fruit, and it is needless to urge caution in this regard, but over-ripe stuff is nearly as bad and should be avoided. If your food disagrees with you find out if possible what it is and then let that particular article alone. Cholera does not like a shining mark, but it simply adores a dirty one. The cabin passengers on the great steamships were not attacked in a single instance. They had good food and were not afraid of water, but the dirty, careless steerage passengers died like sheep with the rot. And while cholera adores a dirty man it simply idolizes a drunkard. It will take great pains to go around a group of sober men to get its relentless grasp on the chronic soak. Let the strong beverages alone.

Another "don't" well to remember is this: Don't take everything some one tells you is good for a diarrhoea. Send for your family physician and obey his orders to the letter.

Speaking of 1873 reminds me that in the summer of that year Dr. Yates and I attended a woman in the house now used by Evans as a wholesale liquor store. She had cholera, genuine Asiatic cholera, and if she is living to-day she can show the hard knotted muscles, unrelaxed from the dreadful cramps. The disease was in Cincinnati, not nearer that I remember, and how she got it is a mystery. It was an isolated case, but under the existing circumstances the occurrence of such a case now would assuredly be followed by others. Don't be scared but be cautious.

SEED TICK.

Corn is about ready to cut. Roads are in better condition than we have ever seen.

Eph Lockwood, of Vessie, was here the other day, we supposed he was hunting yellow root.

Bryant Fannin dissolved partnership with S. Amos, and has gone to work on the dam at Louisa.

We were very glad to hear from Nip and Tuck, and hope they will continue to write to the News.

John Enyarts has settled down on L. Whites place, and we are expecting him to move day after tomorrow, as that is his limited time. He'll go too.

Our friend Brice Fannin, bought a new washing machine, it was recommended to wash any thing, so he tried to wash his face with it; the results was such that he won't try it again.

Our base ball team went to Mud Lick and played a match game, it was such a close game that, both sides claimed it, and we were unable to tell how it was. Still we saw the game.

There is to be a ball game at Bolts Fork next Saturday, that promises to eclipse all previous games that have ever been played in this section. It will be the Bolts Fork Team and Fallsburg champions. Fallsburg beat them before.

Success to the News and its readers is the wish of Paddy.

Democratic Convention

A mass convention of the Democrats of Lawrence county met at the court house Saturday, Sept. 3, 1892, for the purpose of selecting and instructing delegates to the congressional convention to be held at Carlisle Tuesday, Sept. 6th.

Convention was called to order by Alexander Lackey, of the county committee, and on motion he was elected temporary chairman and L. B. Ferguson, temporary secretary. The temporary organization was made permanent.

On motion of Augustus Snyder the usual committees were dispensed with and Hon. Thos. H. Paynter was declared the choice of the convention and the delegates were instructed to cast the vote of Lawrence county for him for Congress. (A number of delegates were appointed, for which we have not space.--Ed.)

Proceedings were ordered published in the Big Sandy News. On motion convention adjourned. ALEXANDER LACKEY, Ch'n. L. B. FERGUSON, Sec.

Notice.

All persons take notice who have business in commissioners court--there will be a special term of same court on the 3rd Monday of Sept., 1892, it being county court day.

What Some Things Have Cost.

From Harper's Young People.

The magnificent national Capitol at Washington has cost, since the laying of its corner-stone in 1793, very nearly $15,000,000, but the State Capitol of New York at Albany, although not yet completed according to the architect's designs, has already cost almost $20,000,000, and is the most expensive building of modern times.

The largest and most expensive City Hall in the United States is that of Philadelphia, and its principal tower is to contain the largest clock in the world.

The greatest price ever paid for a horse was $150,000, given by Mr. Malcom Forbes, of Boston, for Arion, which he bought from Senator Stanford, of California. At the trot, he brought $105,000 when three years old, while in 1891 St. Blaise was sold for $100,000.

One hundred and three thousand dollars have been offered and refused for a Hebrew Bible now in the library of the Vatican at Rome. This makes it the most valuable book in the world, so far as dollars and cents go.

In 1635, when the entire Dutch nation was crazy upon the subject of tulips, a single bulb was sold for $2,300. At such prices it would pay better to raise tulips than to own the most valuable gold mine in the world.

Speaking of gold mines, where do you suppose the most valuable bit of ore ever smelted in the world, so far as is known, was found? In California or Australia or India? No, indeed. It was a lot containing 200 pounds of quartz-holding gold at the rate of $50,000 per ton, and was found in a mine at Ishpeming, Michigan.

The costliest cigars ever exported from Havana were a quantity made expressly for the Prince of Wales, and valued at $1.87 apiece in the factory.

The largest sum ever asked or offered for a single diamond was $21,500,000, which the Prince of Hyderabad, in India, agreed to give the jeweler who then owned the Imperial, which is considered the finest stone in the world.

The Shah of Persia and the Sultan of Turkey each possesses a prayer mat, or rug, made of diamonds and pearls, and valued at something over $2,500,000 apiece. The largest and most expensive rug in the world, made of the ordinary materials of which such things are manufactured, is owned by the Carlton Club of London.

A broken wooden horse, with which Napoleon Bonaparte played when a child, was recently sold for 1400 francs.

Think of paying $250,000 for a single meal! That is what a wealthy Roman once did, when he wished to impress a dozen guests with his disregard for riches.

The most valuable of modern paintings is Meissonier's "1814," which was bought by a Frenchman for $170,000. The same gentleman paid $150,000 for "The Angels," by Millet, of which you all have doubtless seen photographs or other reproductions.

Parents who have young children will be interested in the experience of Mr. Alex. Morris, a prominent druggist at Brit. Iowa. He says: "During the summer of 1882, my little girl, two years of age, was taken seriously ill with summer complaint—so common to children of that age. After being treated by a physician and getting no better, I took from my shelves a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. She felt relieved after the first dose, and in three days was entirely well. For sale by Vinson Bros."

The following extract from a letter written by J. A. Starbuck, of Yorktown, Iowa, speaks for itself: "Two years ago in harvest time, a young man came in my store and said he had been binding wheat and was very tired and sore. He had with him a box of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and he would give me the money back if it did me good. He came in next morning and said the little child he was binding was all right, and he was well. He had not only cured his child, but had worked during the night, and had the price of the day given him for his work. It would have been cheap. I will, further say, depend upon your good work. You can't command your audience to highly. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is one of the greatest medicines of the age; it cannot be beat. Wish you much success and prosperity in which you richly deserve it. Remember to your friend." For sale by Vinson Bros.

AN OBJECT OF ADMIRATION.

It costs comparatively little to adorn a table with what looks just as much like solid silver as you resemble yourself. Those who have not recently made purchases in this direction probably suppose that plated ware is costly enough to be out of the ordinary reach. Nothing of the kind. On the contrary the reverse is the case. You'll discover how true this is, if you will let us quote prices for you when you come to see our display of Casters, Knives, Forks, Spoons, etc. These articles will be as brilliant in their silvery lustre after the service of a lifetime as on the day of purchase. How would your table look with
